

Stefan A. Riesenfeld Symposium and Memorial Award Spring 2000

SYMPOSIUM SPONSORSHIP

Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison, LLP

Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison LLP is proud to serve as co-sponsor of "A Legacy of War: Displaced Masses in the 21st Century." Attorneys throughout our 10 offices are committed to the plight of refugees and to the pro bono representation of refugees. Last year, Brobeck provided more than 14,000 hours of pro bono legal services to a wide range of individuals, including domestic violence victims, AIDS victims, prisoners, homeless individuals and, of course, refugees. In 1999, Brobeck gained political asylum for Kenyan citizens who were persecuted in their homeland for being members of an opposition political party. In addition, the firm gained asylum for Central American political refugees through the Texas Asylum project, which we have participated in for the last 10 years. As we enter the new millennium and see the continued violation of the human rights of displaced individuals around the world, we must continue our vigilance in safeguarding the rights of these individuals who need our help the most. Brobeck, Phleger & Harrison looks forward to our continued contribution to this important cause.

Center for International Legal Studies, Boalt Hall, UC Berkeley

Since its founding in 1911, Boalt Hall has had a long and distinguished history of providing legal instruction in the areas of international and comparative law, attracting notable scholars such as Dean Edwin Dickinson, Max Radin, Covey Oliver, Frank Newman, Albert Ehrenzweig, Stefan Riesenfeld, and Stephen Wilkins. Current faculty who make up the center include professors James Gordley, Laurent Mayali, Harry Scheiber, Richard Buxbaum, and David Caron. The Center for International Legal Studies receives funding from the Ford Foundation for use for students through increased opportunities for clinicals, research, and career development. The Center seeks to encourage interdisciplinary integration between Boalt and the social science departments at UC Berkeley and also facilitates strong connections with foreign faculty.

Morrison & Foerster LLP

With over 800 attorneys in 17 offices, Morrison & Foerster is one of the largest international law firms representing U.S., Asian, European, Latin American and other companies, institutions, and individuals in a variety of activities worldwide. Attorneys resident in Tokyo, Hong Kong, Beijing, Singapore, London, Brussels, and Buenos Aires work closely with attorneys in our domestic offices in a full range of practice areas, allowing our clients to benefit from the most comprehensive and integrated legal services the firm has to offer.

Freshfields

Freshfields is delighted to support the Berkeley Journal of International Law's symposium "A Legacy of War: Displaced Masses in the 21st Century." Freshfields has one of the world's most experienced public international law groups, which has lawyers based in London, Paris, New York and Brussels. In addition to traditional state-to-state public international law, a significant element of our work arises in an international commercial context. Our leading practices in EU law and international environmental law also contribute significantly to the firm's public international law practice. The group includes lawyers who have handled matters arising from the displacement of persons through war, a recent example being Lucy Reed, one of the firm's New York partners, who served as a co-director of the Claims Resolution Tribunal for Dormant Accounts in Switzerland (the Holocaust Tribunal).

Office of the Dean of Students, Boalt Hall, UC Berkeley

We in Student Services are happy to support any effort by students to promote a thoughtful and rigorous examination of international legal and social issues. We are also committed to maintaining and strengthening a welcoming and supportive atmosphere for all students at Boalt. Good luck to the symposium participants! Best wishes from the folks in the Student Services Office: Victoria Ortiz, Dean of Students; Holly Parrish, Coordinator of Student Programs; Charlene Darden Baker, Student Programs Assistant.

Graduate Assembly, UC Berkeley

The Graduate Assembly is UC Berkeley's graduate-student government. The GA currently runs a number of projects including the Education Improvement Grant Program offering financial support to new projects initiated by graduate students.

The Center for Middle Eastern Studies, UC Berkeley

The Center for Middle Eastern Studies is one of eight major world area centers on the Berkeley campus. Our mission is to enhance awareness of the Middle East and of its diverse peoples and cultures, promoting specialized knowledge and public understanding of the Arab world, Iran, Turkey and Israel. CMES has a free Newsletter and listserve. To learn more about the Center or get on our mailing list, call (510) 642-8208, or visit our website at <http://www.ias.berkeley.edu/cmcs>.
